Encouragement and Counseling Ministry

It is important for children, youth, couples, family and group members to recognize that conflict is a natural part of relationships, and effective conflict resolution skills are valuable. The old saying, "If we insist on doing what we have always done, we will arrive at the same place where we have already been" rings true too often for each of us. Frequently, we hurry about trying to "make our mark on life" as God creates His beauty "in the fringes of our activities." Being open and actively pursuing interesting ways of negotiating everyday challenges may actually be healthy for our hearts and relationships.
